MCC turns basement parking into dumpyard

- Crores of rupees spent for a dumpyard in city !
- Officers fail to smell the rot right under their nose

Mysuru, Sept. 14 (RK&BCT)- The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) that gives lofty speeches and spends crores of rupees on waste management, Swachh Bharat and open defecation-free campaign, has to first put its own house in order. It is setting a bad example for people by converting its own building basement parking lot into a dumpyard.

Interestingly, the MCC officers give lectures to the owners of other commercial establishments and hospitals to make the best use of their basements to park vehicles and ease the parking problems plaguing the city. The situation at MCC basement is so bad that officers and employees are scared to enter the place as there are a couple of snakes that have taken shelter there as rats are available in abundance.

Located in the heart of the city on Sayyaji Rao Road, the MCC office has a new building that houses Ashraya Section or the Election Section. While constructing the building, a wide basement was incorporated in the plan to make space for underground parking. After the completion of the building, officers and staff used to park their vehicles there and everything was running as per plan for a few months. But when the renovation of the MCC's old heritage building was taken up two to three years back, the old furniture at the offices of MCC Deputy Commissioners, Revenue Officers and Assistant Commissioners was dumped temporarily at the basement. Gradually, many more things, waste, unused materials, Swachh Bharat dustbins, iron rods and sheets, benches, tables, chairs, files, waste gunny bags, shelves, old vehicles, ornamental lamp posts, pipes, ladders and even metal advertisement hoardings were dumped there.

The waste is gathering dust and the whole place stinks and a musty smell permeates the environs. As this precious parking space is lost, officers and employees park their vehicles in front of the building. MCC employees told Star of Mysore that there are a lot of rodents and rats there and naturally, the place has turned a snake habitat. "We have seen snakes slithering here and there and we are scared even to enter the premises," they complained.

Mysuru, Sept.14 (PM&DM)- The day-long National Lok Adalat conducted by the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority in association with the District Legal Services Authority (DLSA) began at the City Law Courts complex and at the Malalawadi Court Complex (behind Apollo Hospital) this morning, with a huge number of litigants from across the city attending the Adalat. This is the third National Lok Adalat being conducted this year with the earlier ones held on Mar.9 and July 13. The fourth and the last one this year is scheduled to take place on Dec.14. The Lok Adalat is one of the alternative dispute redressal mechanisms and is a forum where disputes/cases pending in the court of law or at pre-litigation stage are settled/compromised amicably.

State Government also dissolves Ranga Samaja; theatre persons cry foul over 'interference'

Mysuru, Sept. 14 (VNS)- In an unprecedented move, the State Government yesterday sacked Directors of all four Rangayanas and also dissolved Ranga Samaja, the decision-making body of the repertories.

Bhagirathi Bai Kadam

The Order was issued by H.K. Suresh Babu, Under-Secretary to the Government, Department of Kannada and Culture, on Sept. 12. The sacking meant that the Directors were not allowed to complete their three-year term.

The sacked Directors are Mysuru Rangayana Director Bhagirathi Bai Kadam, Dr. A. Ganesh (Shivamogga Rangayana), Mahesh V. Patil (Kalaburagi Rangayana) and Pramod Shiggaon (Dharwad Rangayana).

Standing as an act

Scientific studies on sleep by human beings, covering the time taken and quality for its health benefits and other outcomes, have been carried out by research teams in many institutions across the world resulting in publications revealing some interesting features. The Kannada idiom that seniors often quote namely 'Chinthe illadavanige santheyallu nidde' (which translates to 'one who doesn't worry slips into sleep even amidst noisy crowd') has a word of message for persons bugged by insomnia, experiencing difficulty in both falling and staying asleep even under conditions favourable to sleep, and suffering from fatigues, low energy, inability to concentrate, mood disturbances and decreased performance in work of various natures including physical effort.

Modern life, particularly in urban spaces, is marked by people forced to stand in queue, once they are outside their dwellings, awaiting their turn to board a bus or a train, get their automobiles fuelled, obtain admission forms in schools, get attention at the tables of babus in their offices, consult specialist doctors, pay bills at the counters of busy departmental stores, withdraw cash in banks and so on, not to forget performing last rites of kin at crematoria. In short, standing is an act that all able-bodied citizens cannot escape at one point of time or the other in daily life, yet doesn't seem to have been bestowed studies by research teams to the extent that sleep has.

Of the many landmark stages of life, the moment a toddler stands on reaching the tender age of nine months, parents get into celebration mode, even sharing their excitement with relatives living far away from their homes. It takes only a few years, when the toddler crosses teenage stage that parents eagerly look forward to the day when the full-grown adult reaches the stage of standing on his (or her) own feet. There are other aspects of standing (as an act) that researchers have studied.

While energy gets drained in the body and has to be replenished in order to endure as a living entity and also be able to be active, including the act of standing, an adult human being needs 1,200 calories in 24 hours even without any activity as determined by scientists. A new study published recently in a science journal suggests spending more time standing to increase energy expenditure and combat negative health effects of sedentary lifestyle. Researchers have inferred that we burn 45 kilo calories more per six-hour period while standing compared to lying or sitting. More importantly, they have opined that by making small changes in lifestyle, such as spending more time standing, risk of experiencing diseases such as diabetes is reduced.

In this backdrop, unless one is constrained by limitation of time, one has no cause to be rattled while forced to be standing in queues. Also cultivating the culture of queuing amounts to be disciplined without creating disorderly scene in public domain. The saying "They also serve who only stand and wait" represents a spiritual aspect of standing.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Every Democracy has a few dark corners, a few undemocratic lapses. But one has to start worrying about its fate when there is a clear pattern of aggression against one of its most important pillars — Freedom of the Press. Last week, the Uttar Pradesh Police charged journalist Pawan Jaiswal with criminal conspiracy, cheating and providing false evidence after he did a video report of children being served only rotis and salt for their mid-day meal at a primary school in Seur, Mirzapur. The video clip went viral and while we learnt of this shame, this abomination of children being cheated out of the nutritious meal that they are supposed to get under the Government's mid-day meal scheme, the person who brought the story to light was painted as an enemy of the State. — Shuma Raha in Business Standard

Two goats 'arrested' in Telangana!

Telangana : Can animals also commit crimes? The answer of Telangana Police appears to be in the affirmative as they "arrested" two goats for grazing on saplings planted by an NGO.

The bizarre incident occurred in Huzurabad town of Karimnagar district after the activists on Tuesday caught the culprits' "red-handed" and handed them to Police. The goats were brought to the Police Station and tied to a pole in the premises.

Police Inspector Vasamshetty Madhavi said the goats were released after their owner paid a Rs. 1,000 penalty to municipal authorities on Wednesday. Police took action on a complaint by activists of 'Save the Trees' that goats grazed about 150 saplings planted on the premises of a Government-run Hospital.

Laughter really wasn't the best medicine for her

Beijing: A Chinese woman recently had to have her jaw set back in place by a doctor after she dislocated it by laughing too loudly. I guess laughter really wasn't the best medicine for her, quite the contrary.

The bizarre incident took place on Sept. 1, on a high-speed train heading to Guangzhou South Railway Station. Doctor Luo Wensheng, who had boarded the train in Kunming, the capital of south-western Yunnan Province, was commuting to Liwan Hospital – part of Guangzhou Medical University – when he heard an urgent appeal for medical assistance being broadcast through the carriage speakers.

He rushed to help and found a female passenger who had her mouth open and was drooling profusely, which indicated that she had suffered a stroke, but her blood pressure was normal.

It was only after speaking with eye-witnesses that he learned that the woman had become unable to close her mouth due to laughter. After I asked some questions, I learnt she had actually dislocated her jaw.

VOICE OF THE READER

Plea to evict footpath encroachers across city

Sir,

Kudos to the district administration for the bold step taken to clear unauthorised shops atop Chamundi Hill including the ones illegally allotted to Government servants and kins of VVIPs. This is carried out despite the pressure from powerful lobbies.

We the citizens would look (dream!) for a similar action from the administration to vacate the illegally occupied footpaths of Sayyaji Rao Road, especially between K.R. Circle and Ayurveda College Circle (Vishveshwaraiah Circle), around Chikka Gadiyara (Dufferin Clock Tower) and inside the (heritage!) Devaraja Market by the vendors, shop-keepers and establishments. This will be a great service by the district administration to the common public and pedestrians.

Though powerful lobbies will naturally obstruct any such moves by the administration for obvious reasons, I urge the District In-charge Minister V. Somanna to overcome these lobbies with a firm hand and come to the rescue of the rightful users of these public spaces.

Model houses in Kodagu turn haven for anti-social elements

Madikeri, Sept. 14 (PS&BCT)- Anti-social elements in and around Madikeri have a new address to carry out their nocturnal illegal activities including gambling, consuming alcohol and prostitution — model houses built for the flood affected victims in the district. Nobody would have questioned them if they had not vandalised the houses.

Yes, the newly-built houses are being damaged by anti-social elements. Earlier, they used to do these things in abandoned buildings and deserted streets of Madikeri after dark. Now they have shifted their activities to the model houses that were constructed near the RTO office at K. Nidugane Gram Panchayat.

These model houses were constructed by eight agencies to choose the best model to rehabilitate the flood victims of Kodagu and now they have turned into a place for all illegal activities. Thieves have already decamped with doors and windows of a model house constructed by Composite Technologies. Even bulbs, holders and switches have been stolen.

Various models of the houses were constructed for the District Administration and State authorities to choose from to rehabilitate the victims. Now, these houses are idle and no one visits here anymore. Local villagers say that miscreants engage in consuming ganja, smoking and drinking alcohol and also prostitution in these houses.

It has been one year after the houses were constructed and in some of the houses, doors, windows and switch boards have been stolen. Also, people have vandalised the toilets by breaking the commodes and tiles. Water connection pipes have also been stolen.

Villagers said that after 5 pm, the RTO office is vacated by officers and the complex is deserted. There is no security here and the model houses built near the RTO office complex are frequented by anti-social elements after 6 pm.

They have demanded the District Administration and the agencies that have constructed the houses to post adequate security to the model houses before the structures turn a haunted place.

Man gets 4-year jail term for wife's death

Mysuru, Sept. 14 (SBD&BCT)- The Fifth Additional District and Sessions Court has sentenced a man to four years imprisonment for causing the death of his wife due to his wayward attitude and alcoholism. He has been identified as Suresh, a resident of Yedahalli village near Yelwal.

Suresh had married Vijayalakshmi alias Viji from Sahukarahundi and at the time of the marriage, he was given cash of Rs. 20,000, a gold chain and a finger ring. An alcoholic, he used to pick up quarrels with his wife every day.

On June 29 in 2014, Suresh came home drunk and assaulted Vijayalakshmi. He had then kicked her stomach and after she fell, he poured kerosene on her and told her to die. Fed up with his torture, the woman lit fire on herself and ended her life.

Golden Seed art expo from Sept. 14 - Oct. 19

A primary aspect of Indian cultural and economical history has been farming. Art has always represented its rich practices and history.

Dayananda Nagaraju, the son of a farming family, grew up observing the realities of farming. These observations motivate Dayananda's artwork through drawing, water colour, installation and sculpture and present a refreshing and contemporary take on an ancient practice that now finds itself in flux.

Anokhi Garden will showcase Dayananda Nagaraju's artwork at its Gallery (open Wednesday - Sunday, 8 am to 5 pm), Contour Road, near Adithya Hospital, Gokulam from Sept. 14 - Oct. 19. For details call: 0091 886 160 0781 or visit: www.facebook.com/Anokhigarden.

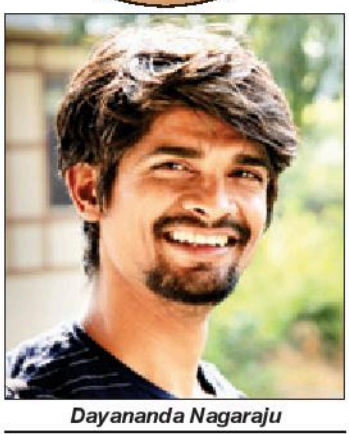
The Golden Seed, also the title of the Exhibition, is thirty-three, 24 carat gold rice kernels, sitting in an earthenware bowl, representing continuum, hope, potential, ethics and beauty.

Central to the exhibition are large complex drawings. Besugé (Inter-connected) are circular water colours representing the inter-woven complexity of nature. Unsolvable are black and septia ink mediations inspired by common tree knots.

Whether or not the drawings are taken in at face value, there is another attribute that one observes in Dayananda's drawings — it is the depth of the process of drawing — a process of exploration, of contemplation, a wrestling of sorts with the material, and perhaps with the inner workings of the artist.

Juxtaposed to the controlled and intricate renderings of these introspective pieces, is the Bullman series. These are figurative, fast-paced illustrations representing the bull that is often let loose from the farm and disregarded because of his non-commercial value. Many of these drawings Dayananda has never before exhibited, but has instead used them to wrap or package other works of art.

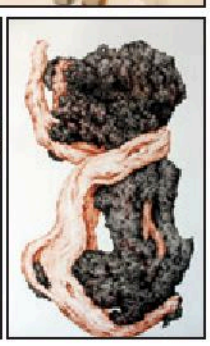
Included in the exhibition are objects that have been traditionally part of the culture of farming, some of which have been made obsolete by time, but symbolically still important.



Dayananda Nagaraju

Taken out of context and reworked by the artist, they stand alone as arresting objects. In the piece, Anonymous Strike 2, Dayananda adorns the traditional Onake (wooden pestle) which was once used in the kitchen to pound grain and spices, with playfully painted contemporary objects. Entwining recycles worn-out sarees of the mother and grandmother into intriguing floor mats. The symbol of farming, the sickle, is sheathed in knitted rope in the sculpture Atantraru 4 (Being on threshold). Battada Bogase 3 brings the paddy field indoors and enables the viewer to contemplate the repetitive cycle of farming.

Using a variety of personalised art-forms and with an insight inspired by love, sensitivity, frustration and humour, Dayananda opens up an alternative perspective into the life of farming culture.



SKYWATCH: Rare 'Harvest' Micromoon to light the sky tonight

There is a celestial feast for Indians today (Sept.14), as everyone can witness the smallest full moon or micromoon for the year 2019. This year's full Harvest Moon presents the smallest, farthest full moon of 2019. It lies more than 252,000 miles away, in contrast to the moon's average distance of about 239,000 miles. In general, the distance between Moon and Earth on this day will be 4,05,000 kilometres.

A harvest moon, which happens nearest to equinox, will appear on Sept.13 may be inauspicious date. But amateur astronomers and astronomy connoisseurs will find themselves lucky because something rare is set to happen this year.

The harvest moon often appears large and orange, since many people observe it as it surfaces above the horizon. But this year, the harvest moon will seem unusually small. Farthest and closest full moons recur in regular cycles. The closest full moon comes seven lunar months — or the seventh full moon — after tonight's farthest full moon. Then the farthest full moon comes seven lunar months after the closest full moon. For the next seven lunar months, the full moon will come progressively closer to Earth. All the full moons have traditional names — from many different cultures — that coincide with the months or seasons of the year. In most years, the September or October full moon is the Northern Hemisphere's Harvest or Hunter's Moon.

The Hunter's Moon is the full moon that immediately follows the full Harvest Moon. Because the ecliptic — the pathway of the moon — crosses the horizon at a shallow angle on autumn evenings, it means the Harvest and Hunter's Moons bring us the year's grandest procession of moonlit nights. In general, the moon rises about 50 minutes later each day, as it moves in orbit around Earth. All full moons rise around the time of sunset.

The Harvest Moon and Hunter's Moon are special because—as seen from the northern hemisphere — the time of moonrise between successive evenings is shorter than usual. The moon rises approximately 30 minutes later, from one night to the next, as seen from about 40 degrees north latitude, for several evenings around the full Hunter's or Harvest Moons. Thus there is no long period of darkness between sunset and moonrise, around the time of these full moons. In times past, this feature of these autumn moons was said to help hunters tracking their prey. They could continue tracking their prey by moonlight even when the sun had gone down. Hence the name Hunter's (or Harvest) Moon.

The harvest moon occurring on Sept.14, which is a micromoon, will be absolutely rare as the similar event occurred in 1832 and this type of event will occur after next 50 years.

IN BLACK & WHITE

Vikram Muthanna

Fine us, but punish them

Three weeks ago, a friend picked me up for lunch. He was late. The reason for the delay he said was the long line at the RTO and Emission Certification Centre.

A few minutes into our drive, I noticed there was a red 'L' board sticker on his windshield. He said his licence had expired 3 years ago so he had to start the licence process from scratch. And now at the age of 43 he had to take a driver's test again and is now driving around with an 'L' board.

But what prompted him to get his licence now, when he was audacious enough to drive without one for 3 years? I also noticed his dark tints were removed. So what changed his mind after all these years? So, What made him follow the law now? — Fear. Fear of a "hefty" fine.

India's Parliament approved the Motor Vehicles Amendment Bill on July 31, 2019, and one of the reasons for the amendment was the number of deaths on Indian roads. India accounts for about 2% of motor vehicles globally, but accounts for more than 11% of road traffic deaths globally. This is because we Indians don't care for our own safety. As senior Police Officer Praveen Sood, said "What is in public interest may not always be what the public is interested in." And he is right.

Every year the Mysuru Police warn people not to climb up and gather atop old buildings along the Dasara procession route. Yet every year the public does exactly that. How much can the Police or law do if people don't care for their own safety?

We have a culture that has complete disregard for our safety and others' too — from getting up before a flight comes to a complete halt to hopping onto a moving train; from driving up a one-way street to checking safety ratings of cars. In fact, Maruti Suzuki did a survey where they found that when the company offered an air-bag for the passenger seat in the Maruti Alto for just an additional Rs. 6,000, only 5% of car buyers opted for it. Guess, they don't like their spouse too much!

Now, everyone is complaining about the 'heftiness' of the fines. But if you follow the law, why do you care how much the fine is? So should we have cheap fines and chaos instead of hefty fines and order?

Also if people are worried that Police will demand more bribe, then you simply have to follow the law so the cop has no reason to ask for a bribe.

Unfortunately, like how in Europe fine is based on a person's income, in India we cannot do that because most people don't even pay taxes; so we don't know their income, so on what basis can we fine them? May be we should fine based on the price of the vehicle being driven.

While the Government is quick to fine a vehicle owner, what about fine for Government servants who make roads dangerous for the common man? When will the Government make road contractors accountable?

In 2017, there were 803 deaths due to terror attacks and Naxal strikes, while potholes claimed 3,597 lives! Potholes are more dangerous than terrorists! This data was reported by the Supreme Court-appointed Committee on Road Safety.

The Supreme Court, while calling these deaths as "A tragedy that arises only due to lack of concern by authorities," also rued saying, "Unfortunately, no criminal action is taken against authorities for their negligence."

Well, now with the new amendment they can. But will they?

In 2015, the Bengaluru Police booked a man for negligent driving, when he lost balance after hitting a pothole on Devara Beesana Halli flyover throwing his wife to the ground killing her, instead of arresting the contractor for putting the lives of citizens in danger because of his shoddy work.

In this Bill there are some provisions for the road contractor to be penalised but it will work only if it's connected to Section 304A of Indian Penal Code which says, "Whoever causes the death of any person by doing any rash or negligent act not amounting to culpable homicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of two years, or with fine, or with both."

Also the officers implementing these new rules, will they do an honest job of it? Already jokes are doing the rounds that now the dowry for a Traffic Police man is higher than an IAS Officer !

Then how can a rule such as Section 194B, which makes it mandatory for every child to be secured by a safety belt or a child-restraint system, be monitored? What about children who are sandwiched between parents on a scooter?

The Police should first force people to follow traffic rules, personal safety rules can wait. After all, it is called "personal" safety for a reason, it's personal. If they don't love their own head, it is their headache but if they drive up a one-way street, they are endangering the public.

For now, the Government while trying to bring about a 'fine-induced' behavioural change among Indians, they must also bring about a 'punishment-induced' behavioural change among public servants, because the law-makers and law-keepers in our country are the biggest law-breakers.

Unsung Beadstringers of Ashoka Road

By Shadan Muneer

These threads full of enchantment have entangled in your caress…
No clue or hint I can fathom, how this knot could be unravelled…
Each shred hums in my body, like a stream from the heaven…

These are the lyrics of the Hindi hit song "Yeh moh moh ke dhaage...Teri ungliyon se ja uljhe" roughly translated to English.

A melange of colours, a dash of design — Craftsmen engrossed with threads and shimmering beads artistically woven around their deft fingers, their tools stacked on the roadside, usually flocked by women, intrigued by their skills on display. One would be forgiven for thinking that these are scenes from a bygone era but this is a common sight on Ashoka Road, if you have the eyes to spot it.

Bead art in India dates back to Indus Valley Civilisation and is said to be 5,000 years old. People during that age made beads out of silver, gold, clay, ivory and even wood. Indian jewellery, made out of various stones, pearls and metals stands out for its uniqueness of design and craftsmanship. As much as we praise the magnificence of jewellery, the toil and talent of the master craftsmen usually escapes into obscurity and these unsung craftsmen are a classic example of hardly being recognised for their talent or effort.

Beadwork is the use of beads in fabric decoration and ornamental design. Beads were used decoratively in ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome and during the Indus Valley civilisation. However, today, the art that is handmade is becoming increasingly hard to find, which is reflected in its price point in the marketplace. Beadwork, with its symmetric or asymmetric patterning, stands out for its intricate and innovative designs. The practice of beading transmutes a jumble of beads into a meaningful whole. This Weekend Star Supplement introduces some of the unsung traditional bead artists on Ashoka Road pavement who have mastered the delicate art and made it their own.

Deeply personal art

Speak to them and each craftsman educates us through the vocabulary of beads. Individual beads act like words, strung together in sentences. Each craftsman on the sidewalk tells the story of beads and what inspiration triggered the design. These beaded objects are deeply personal and the men share bits about themselves, how the art was transferred from their forefathers and how they attentively followed the instructions — though they were tough to follow initially.

Nimble hands to the needle

One can actually see how the beads are dexterously moved from their nimble hands to the needle and string to create that exquisite design. These designs become a prized possession of a woman who proudly shares them with the world.

Many cultures have rich beadwork traditions and aesthetics and motifs can vary. Like other traditional craft forms, such as embroidery or weaving, beadwork symbolises visual language and messages that are passed down within a community or family. Their works simultaneously keep their culture's traditions alive apart from providing them livelihood.

MASTER-CRAFTSMEN STRING BEADS FOR THAT ALLURING LOOK: Mohammad Shaukat, Mubarak Pasha and Abdul Wajid display their expertise and dexterity in stringing pearls that adorn the necks of womenfolk, enhancing their beauty.

Syed Rafiq, Shahrukh and their pearlwork.

Adding beauty to clothing

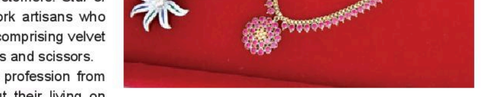
Embroidery has been the art form that adds beauty to clothing to express individual creativity. Beadwork is respected as a traditional craft and there are amazing bead artists who are blurring the boundaries of art and craft, creating works of art that reflect rich traditions. The craftsmen on Ashoka Road, undeterred by the chaotic traffic and surging pedestrians, are busy threading, stringing and modifying a variety of ornaments as per the demands of their customers. Star of Mysore caught up with these beadwork artisans who are seen with their small silver boxes comprising velvet trays, colourful threads, strings, needles and scissors.

These artisans have been into this profession from generations and have been eking out their living on Ashoka Road, which was known as Jewellery Bazar during the time of erstwhile Maharajas.

Replacing threads and strings

Bead-makers, also called 'Patvegar' or 'Moti Puranewale' in Hindi and 'Mani Ponsouru' in Kannada offer a range of services which include black beads stringing for mangalsutra, jaumala haar, white pearl stringing, kasina sara or galsar (gold coin necklace), lachcha, replacing threads and strings of necklaces, adding gold thread rope for gold necklaces, multiple bead stringing, replacing stones among others.

Various branded jewellery stores across the city also avail their services for stringing beads of precious stones such as emeralds, rubies and also semi-precious stones. Their service charges depend on the pattern, starting from mere Rs.30 and could go up to Rs.800 for real gem stones.



Passed on from forefathers

My forefathers have been into this profession from the past 60 years. I too picked up my beading needle and thread watching them do it since childhood. Our work is related to jewels so we sit near jewellery stores," quips Syed Rafiq, one of the beadwork artisans with more than 30 years of experience.

He also adds that his father Nisar Ahmed is one of the oldest beadwork artisans and informs that his father had worked as a jewellery artisan even for the royals during those good old days. [Continued on page 12]

Zabiulla stringing antique real pearls set.

From Royalty to Commoners

Mubarak Pasha, another bead maker who is into stringing from the past 20 years and also hails from a family of artisans told SOM: "My grandfather and my father got me into this line. I usually get customers who want me to string 'kasina sara' and 'taali sara'. I charge between Rs. 30 and Rs.100."

He also mentions that his father too had worked on the ornaments like the braid jewellery belonging to the royal family. When asked if he would pass on the craft to his children, he opines: "It is left to them to decide what they want to do".

Bringing good fortune

Little further away was a father-son duo busy stringing pearls on the same street. Abdul Wajid, who has 56 years of experience in this art says: "This is my livelihood and passion. The variety of beads that I work on not only suffices the aesthetic sense but has also religious angle to it. Genuine pearls were believed to bring in good fortune and were popular with the royals in olden days. Gradually common man took a passion towards them. Black beads are also known to fight negative energy."

Abdul Wajid also adds that the most special work till date he has worked on is the jewellery belonging to the Palace. Zabiullah, who was seen sitting opposite to the Arali Mara on Ashoka Road, has an experience of over two decades.

"This is a delicate art and we have to carefully string it, the love for jewellery in Mysuru can be judged from the presence of many jewellery shops. Customers keep me busy all day," he says as he replaces a string of an antique pearl set.

Time and cost saving

As we converse with these talented artisans, we noticed that many customers visit these craftsmen to avail their services. "I have come here to attach a coin pendant to the black beads for the 'mangalsutra' for my daughter who is getting married next month. Availing services here saves a lot of time and it is also low on cost," says Gowramma, a locality resident.

Rehana Afroz reveals her reason for the visit. "The pearl necklace that I had once brought from Hyderabad was broken by my child and I am here to get it stringed again and also to change the back rope 'Dori' of my multi-layered beaded necklace."

"I have purchased the beads and I want to get a 'jaumala' done here with knots and I also have to replace a stone in my ring," says Kavitha, a housewife.

Minister Somanna to get ugly Arch Gate repaired for Dasara

Somanna

Mysuru, Sept. 14- In the course of widening and development work of Abba Road from Five Lights Circle to Hyder Ali Road into a six-lane road, near the 150-year-old Government Guest House in Nazarbad last year, the ornate and massive heritage Arch Gate was damaged. The historic structure now stands as an orphan and is an eyesore.

Though an attempt was made to repair it immediately, the Heritage Committee came into the scene and stopped the work saying that the heritage structure was not being properly repaired for the purpose of restoring it. They said that the work on the damaged historical arch as per the heritage building protection norms without demolishing and damaging its originality as per the guidelines laid down by Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage will be taken up by the Department itself.

Since then the Arch Gate remains as it was. Now that lakhs of visitors would come for Dasara from Bengaluru and other places and most of them would be travelling on this particular road to the down-town city and Mysore Palace, naturally this vandalised Arch Gate would hit their eyes as they enter the city.

When this matter was brought to the notice of MLA S.A. Ramdas by a member of the public, a promise was made to get it ready for Dasara. However, it never happened and another MLA under whose Constituency the Arch Gate comes (Tanveer Sait) was not available for contact, said a concerned citizen of the city.

As a result, to this day, the Arch Gate remains an eyesore with some small trees growing on top of it and its outer plastering peeling off, presenting an ugly site.

This morning, a concerned citizen telephoned Star of Mysore office to say that he had spoken to the Mysuru District in-Charge Minister V. Somanna who had promised to get it done urgently before Dasara. In a sarcastic way the caller said, "Let us pray to Chamundeshwari."

Rangayana Directors

The marching orders came as a shocker to Rangayana Directors, members of Ranga Samaja, theatre personalities and theatre enthusiasts. They have objected to the way the Government has meddled into the affairs of independent and self-governing cultural and art institutions.

Further, the State Government has appointed Secretary, Department of Kannada and Culture, as the Director for all four Rangayanas. This is probably for the first time that the Rangayana Directors have been shunted out just because there is change of guard in the State's political administration.

Earlier, the Government had sacked B.V. Rajaram, who was serving as Mysuru Rangayana Director, as he took part in the protest against the transfers of Rangayana artistes to Dharwad and Shivamogga Rangayanas during March, 2013. During 2016, Iqbal Ahmed and R.K. Hudugi, Directors of Shivamogga and Kalaburagi Rangayanas, were dismissed on charges of alleged sexual harassment and misappropriation respectively, which the duo had denied.

The Govt. also dissolved Ranga Samaja comprising Sripad Bhat (Uttara Kannada), Gopalakrishna Nayari (Udupi), Mallikarjuna Kadakola (Davanagere), Visveshwari Hiremath (Belagavi), Sahana Pinjaar (Ballari), L. Krishnappa (Bengaluru), and M. Chandrakanth (Mysuru) as its members. Members of Ranga Samaja appoint the Directors of Rangayana.

Speaking to SOM, former Rangayana Director H. Janardhan (Janni) said that the sacking of Rangayana Directors was nothing but an insult to Kannada and Culture. "No artiste approaches the State Government demanding any posts. It is the Government which comes to the artistes and requests them to adorn certain positions. And sacking them when there is a change in Government is nothing but an exhibition of arrogance by people in power. This cannot be accepted," he said.

These actions will harm cultural and academic institutions and will hamper scholarly and intellectual works done by the Directors, he added.

Amateur theatre artistes have also expressed their anguish and called it a great insult to nationally and internationally-acclaimed artistes. "This is for the first time that such a decision has been taken. We had never come across an incident were Rangayana Directors had been sacked just because the Government had changed. It is a big mistake and insults well-known theatre personalities," said B. Rajesh, a Mysuru-based amateur theatre artiste.

Terming the decision as 'unethical,' theatre personalities in Bengaluru have called for a meeting of all theatre persons and enthusiasts on Sept.16 at Ravindra Kalakshetra to discuss future course of action. They opined that politics must never interfere with theatre.

"Appointment of Rangayana Directors cannot be compared with appointments of Chairpersons to various Government-run Boards and Corporations. If Rangayanas and Ranga Samajas are autonomous bodies, they should be allowed to function independently without political interference," said another theatre enthusiast.

MCC basement parking as dumpyard

The front of the building is reserved to park cleaning vehicles but the space is all occupied by staff and officers. There is an exclusive parking place for Corporators. This place too is occupied by MCC staff and officers. As a result, there is no parking place for the general public who end up parking on the main road near the Palace.

Every year, the MCC spends crores of rupees in Swachh Bharat Mission taking several cleanliness measures to keep the city clean. "But unfortunately, the MCC's basement itself is not clean and the officers have ignored the smell and stench right under their very noses," said a visitor to the MCC. He added that there is no single toilet facility for hundreds of visitors who come to the MCC every day.

There is a toilet at the backside of the building that is badly maintained by the MCC that preaches and asks people to practice open-defecation-free premises. The Health Section of the MCC has the responsibility of maintaining this toilet and surroundings. Many people come to the MCC Office and the Contractors' Association Building day in and day out. "All these people use this stinky toilet and the smell is horrible and nauseating. One can't even venture near the toilet and this forces people to relieve themselves behind the walls. So much for the MCC's Open Defecation-free Policy," said another visitor.

National Lok Adalat held

A total of 31 Lok Adalat benches have been set up at the two Court Complexes in city, while two Lok Adalat Peethas were set up at each of the six Taluk-level Courts of the District — Nanjangud, K.R. Nagar, H.D. Kote, Periyapatna, Hunsur and T. Narasipur. Each bench had a Judge and a panel advocate appointed by DLSA. As far as the city is concerned, 1,279 cases pertaining to Bank Recovery suits will be taken up among other cases in today's Adalat.

Speaking to SOM, Judge and DLSA Member Secretary B.P. Devamane said that about 12,500 cases will be coming up at Lok Adalats being held today across the district. Stating that the DLSA has set an objective of resolving more cases than last time, Devamane appealed the people to take this opportunity for quick settlement of their matters (both pending litigation/ pre-litigation) through the Adalat.

Pointing out that there is no Court fee payable when a matter is filed in a Lok Adalat, he said that when a matter pending in the Court of Law is referred to the Lok Adalat and is settled subsequently, the Court fee originally paid in the Court on the complaints/petition is also refunded back to the parties.

In the last Lok Adalat held on July 13, 11,239 cases were taken up in the district, out of which 3,372 disputes, covering property, land and other litigations with total claims of Rs.21,23,80,000, were settled.

DLSA can be contacted on Ph: 0821-2330130 or 2330040.

Pejawar Seer undertakes padayatra in Manjunathapura

Mysuru, Sept.14 (MK&US)- "My long drawn wish is that Dalits should come to the main stream of society and live like others without any inferiority complex or stigma attached," disclosed Pejawar Seer Sri Vishwesha Theertha Swamiji.

The Swamiji was speaking after participating in a 'Samarasya Padayatra' organised by Veeranjaneyaswamy Samskrutika Trust at Manjunathapura here recently.

The Swamiji recalled that he had undertaken a harmony walk in two or three Dalit Colonies in Mysuru out of sheer love and compassion. He said that a sense of equality should set in among all communities in society without singling out anyone. He sought an end to treating Dalits as a separate entity, for which several special efforts are being put in. He assured to pray for the welfare of the Dalits.

Grand Welcome: The Swamiji was accorded a grand welcome by residents of Manjunathapura on his arrival. Women and children presented a 'Poorna Kumbaha' welcome and showered flower petals. He was offered a Tulsi garland and 'Padapuja' was performed.

The Swamiji preferred to stay neutral regarding the arrest of former Minister D.K. Shivakumar (DKS) by the Enforcement Directorate.

Regarding the participation of a few Mutt heads in the protest held in Bengaluru recently supporting DKS, the Swamiji said that those participating Swamijis could have felt that DKS was innocent and hence they voiced support.

However, he refused to comment on the subject and reiterated to stay neutral.

The Swamiji later inaugurated the Veeranjaneyaswamy Samskruthika mattu Shaikshanika Seva Trust. Sri Yukteshanandaji and Sri Shivakanthanandaji of Sri Ramakrishna Ashrama and others were present.

CCB constable ends life in Belagavi
He was a BE graduate who entered Police force

Mysuru, Sept. 14 (RK&BCT)- A young City Crime Branch (CCB) constable from Mysuru ended his life at Belagavi as he had gone there for Ganesha festival security bandobust. He is 28-year-old V. Pramod.

Pramod

Pramod, a resident of T. Narasipur had joined the Police service just two months back and according to his colleagues and senior officers, he would stay aloof most of the time while at work. Officers even had asked him a couple of times about his strange behaviour and he had reportedly told them he had some personal issues.

Officers had counselled him to come out of his problems and focus on Policing. He was posted to Belagavi for Ganesha Festival security and he ended his life yesterday morning by hanging. Pramod is the son of Venkatesh of T. Narasipur and had completed his engineering in Computer Science and had joined the Police force.

Over 50 Policemen from Mysuru including 6 from CCB were sent to Belagavi to provide security for the mass immersion of Ganesha idols. The team was to return today. Pramod took the extreme step in the bathroom of a Kalyana Mantap where the CCB team stayed.

Some colleagues found him hanging and alerted the CCB headquarters in Mysuru. The family members have rushed to Belagavi and a case has been registered at Malamaruti Police Station.

WORD OF THE DAY

Adscititious

Pronunciation: ad-suh-TISH-us.
Meaning: Derived or acquired from something extrinsic.
Origin: Adscititious comes from a very "knowledgeable" family — it ultimately derives from scīscere, the Latin verb meaning "to get to know, ascertain, vote for, approve." The related scīre means "to know" and is fundamental to science, conscience, prescience ("foreknowledge"), nescience ("lack of knowledge"), as well as adscititious. Admittedly, adscititious is more akin to adscīscere, which means "to admit" or "to adopt." This explains why adscititious describes something adopted from an outside source.
Example: "We should choose our books as we would our companions, for their sterling and intrinsic merit, not for their adscititious or accidental advantages." — Charles Caleb Colton, Lacon.

THE ODD WORD

Abactor
Cattle thief.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A load of cobblers

Meaning: Nonsense, rubbish.

Origin: This is a classic of Cockney rhyming slang. It has nothing directly to do with shoemakers but originates from 'cobblers' awls', the pointed hand-tools that cobblers use to pierce holes in leather. The rhyme is with 'balls', meaning testicles. The phrase is often reduced to simply 'cobblers', which is now considered an acceptable vulgarism, as many may not be aware of its origin. 'Cobblers' sounds as though it might have been said by cheeky Victorian barrow boys in Dickens or similar. In fact, it isn't as old as it might sound and wasn't used until the mid 20th century. The earliest example that I've found in print, bearing in mind that it probably existed as street slang for some time before printed versions appeared, is from Philip Allingham's Cheapjack, his account of life amongst English market traders and fairground stall-holders, which was published in 1934: "The Cobbler is even more simple. It is a ball game..'cobbler' is the slang for ball."
